

NEW-YORK, August 26.

Extra of a letter from Pittsburgh, dated July 26, 1773.

The design of establishing a new government on the Ohio, has excited a very alarming jealousy amongst the Western Indians, belts have been sent to all the castles in these parts, as well as to the five nations; we have the satisfaction however to find they are in a state of division and discontent amongst themselves, and none have yet accepted the belts save our old inveterates the Shawanese and Delawares: however there is no doubt that the utmost endeavours are concerting amongst the most mischievous of them towards a general Indian war, as the nations in general seem determined upon opposing every measure that may contribute to this near approach of their territory, in short they never will be reconciled to us and to our manners, being taught from infancy to hate us. As these troublesome folks may in a short time after they have gathered in their harvest, become very formidable to the many families settled in their vicinities, it is hoped that measures will be taken by every province to prevent those dreadful consequences that we felt from our last provocation of them.

WILLIAMSBURG, August 19.

This day died Mr. William Rind, printer to the colony, after a tedious illness. He was a gentleman of a very amiable character, being a tender husband, a kind parent, an indulgent master, and a faithful servant of the publick,

PHILADELPHIA, September 6.

On Sunday se'night the Honourable John Penn, Esq; one of the proprietaries and governor in chief of this province, and his lady, arrived in this city from New York. They were met at Bristol by a great number of gentlemen and ladies, who accompanied them to town. The next day, the governor, being attended by the council, the supreme judge, the mayor, recorder and commonalty, of this city, and several gentlemen of the clergy, and preceded by the sheriff and his officers, went in procession to the court-house, where his commission for the government of this province, and the counties of New-Castle, Kent and Sussex on Delaware, was published with the usual solemnities, in the presence of a very great concourse of people.

We hear that, immediately after the governor's commission was published, the corporation of the city met, in order to draw up and present an address of congratulation to him on his safe return to settle in the province, when a member of the board informed them, that he was authorized to mention it as his honour's wish, "that the ceremony of written addresses might be dispensed with, as entirely needless on the present occasion, for that having received so many substantial and repeated proofs of regard from all denominations of people, as well during his former administration, as when the affairs of his family made it lately necessary for him to depart for a short time to England, he could not now doubt of the continuance of their good will towards him."

Just imported, in the Lovely Kitty, Capt. Howard, from London, Assortments of winter goods for my several stores;

BY the above vessel I have letters from my partner Mr. Hobson, at London, dated in July, advising me of his health and welfare, which I take this method of communicating to our friends. The first of our ships that arrived, would be immediately dispatched with the goods ordered; good tobacco, bright and of colour would answer; but such vast quantity of light ordinary ill-conditioned and trash tobacco is sent home, as greatly to hurt the market, and if continued, will totally ruin it, and all concerned. The Somerset, Capt. Robinson, takes tobacco consigned to West and Hobson, and will be immediately loaded. I have ordered insurance as usual. No trash tobacco will be taken on board this ship if known to be such.

Annapolis, September 14, 1773.

Dr. BAKER, surgeon dentist, from Williamsburg, Virginia,

BEGS leave to inform the gentry, that he is now at Mrs. Mary Howard's coffee-house, and will wait on them on receiving their commands; he cures the scurvy in the gums, be it ever so bad, first cleans and scales the teeth from that corrosive tartarous gritty substance which hinders the gums from growing, infects the breath, and is one of the principal causes of the scury, which if not timely prevented eats away the gums, so that many peoples teeth fall out fresh; he prevents teeth from growing rotten, keeps such as are decayed from becoming worse, even to old age, makes the gums grow up firm to the teeth, and renders them white and beautiful;—he fills up with lead or gold those that are hollow, so as to render them useful; it prevents the air from getting into them, which aggravates the pain; he transplants natural teeth from one person to another, which will be as firm in the jaw as if they originally grew there, without any ligament; he makes and fixes artificial teeth with the greatest exactness and nicety, without pain or the least inconvenience, so that they may eat, drink, or sleep with them as natural ones, from which they cannot be discovered by the sharpest eye; he displaces teeth and stumps, after the best and easiest methods, be they ever so deep sunk into the socket of the gums, &c. &c. He has given sufficient proof of his abilities in this art, to the principal nobility, gentry, and others of Great-Britain, France, Ireland, Holland, and other principal places in Europe and America, also to some thousands in Virginia.

His antiscorbutick dentifrice is quite free from any corrosive preparation, and is a certain cure for all disorders of the teeth, gums, and foul breath. Its superior efficacy over any thing yet offered to the publick will be evinced in once using; it concocts the vitiated juices, and renders a juvenile fragrance to the breath beyond description; it makes the saliva pure and balsamick, is perfectly innocent, will eradicate the scurvy, and restore the gums to their pristine state, if the teeth and gums have been thoroughly cleaned by some skilful dentist.
